

Operating systems avoid deadlock with prevention, avoidance, and detection.

DBMS normalization reduces redundancy and improves data integrity.

Computer networks use layered protocols to make communication manageable.